2K.2 Inc is a research practice that specializes in strategically designing, executing, and analyzing customized market research studies for the pharmaceutical and biotechnology industries. We are dedicated to lending creative insights and solutions to our clients' business questions through leveraging our years of experience and best-in-class expertise.

We help our clients make better decisions as they develop, launch and manage products, because our research insights and results are action-oriented and add value to our clients' business decisions.

Our research philosophy is simple: market research is only a means to an end in navigating the complicated decision-making process required to successfully launch and manage brands in today's healthcare market.

When strategic market research is conducted appropriately and thoughtfully, accuracy and confidence in decisions pertaining to brand development and management can be greatly increased.

We at 2K.2 pride ourselves on having the keen ability to LISTEN to our clients' business issues and UNDERSTAND their strategic objectives, and to, if appropriate, recommend the right approach. We will then translate issues and questions into relevant research that will help BRIDGE the decision gap. Whether the recommended approach is qualitative, quantitative or just our opinion, 2K.2 is ready to provide an honest evaluation.
